

UNITED AGAINST RAGGING- EVENTS AT GIMSH

Ragging , once considered a mere ice breaking session in educational institutions has today become a serious menace. Keeping this in mind the NMC had officially directed all medical colleges across our country to observe 'Anti ragging week ' following the UGC ' s advisory. Our college GIMSH , being no exception adhered to the issued guidelines. The event was curated from 12th to 18th August

It was orchestrated with a number of events like slogan and essaywriting , poster designing , photography contest , street plays , quizzes , debates etc. We even had a edifying session of discussion with from department of psychiatry. The seminar was organised discussing the evil effects of ragging such as physiological trauma , physical injury and even fatalities. She enlightened us about the legal aspects of ragging which violates the fundamental right to life and dignity guaranteed under ARTICLE 21 of Indian constitution and is a criminal offence under law as declared by Supreme Court of India.

On the 15th of August , following the unfurling of the tricolour flag of India , we had a number of events dedicated to today's topic . First we started with poster making. A number of students participated in it. As we know every stroke of brush is the whisper of the soul , through painting the invisible becomes visible. It was a silent poetry which our students etched down on blank paper. Following this we had a skit on anti ragging. Some of our batchmates portrayed themselves as seniors , some as juniors and others as faculties. It was a fun to do event but deep inside we knew it had a subtle theme coded and concealed within.

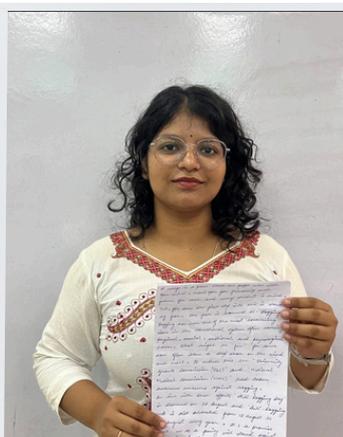

It was followed by an essay writing competition . Everyone was writing their own personal experiences perhaps, a symphony of thoughts , arranged in harmony. Debate was also organised with a quiz contest. Our college GIMSH has always upheld a zero tolerance policy towards ragging. From day one of foundation course the esteemed faculties and management has meticulously tried to maintain a safe anti ragging framework for the budding students.
